

This is a very bad idea. Limiting our choices for media outlets will only decrease the quality of information. When media is controlled by large companies that are more interested in profits than providing quality news and entertainment. We will all suffer. We have already seen a big decline in the quality of local radio stations since the deregulation several years ago. This will cause more of the same with television.